The Urban Public Policy Fellowship (UPPF) program is a leadership development program designed to expose historically underrepresented minority undergraduate students at UIC to key public policy issues. The program provides Fellows with weekly seminars offering a solid introduction to theory and practice in the areas of public policymaking, advocacy, community development, and service provision.

Students from all academic areas are eligible including those with an interest in fields such as education, urban planning, political science, sociology, urban health, communication, and law. Upperclassman standing (minimum 45 hours) is necessary to participate in this non-degree, non-credit program.

We encourage you to attend an Informational Session held on Wednesday, February 22, 2012 at 1:00p.m. - 2:00p.m. in the Latino Cultural Center (LC B2) to learn more about the UPPF program and the application process. Refreshments and light snacks will be provided.

Please contact Catalina Nava at cnav2@uic.edu or directly at (312) 355-0154 if you have any questions. Visit our website www.ipce.uic.edu for more information about our program.
