STATEMENT: The following documents outline the Grievance procedures through which faculty or instructional staff may seek resolution of complaints arising from a decision or a refusal to make a decision that affects their employment at the University of Illinois at Chicago or one of its sites. These procedures are intended to encourage informal means of resolving a complaint and to provide prompt, fair, and definitive resolution.

These procedures separate academic claims of students or academic professional staff from claims of faculty and instructional staff. Separate guidelines are housed on this website and can be found in Part III of this documentation. Academic professional grievance procedures can be found at:
