

Asian American Resource and Cultural Center Workshops

Since 2005, the Asian American Resource and Cultural Center (AARCC) has supported the needs of UIC's Asian American students and educated the campus about Asian American culture, history, and contemporary social issues. AARCC will offer two Summer College workshops to introduce students to campus resources and programs with a focus on Asian Americans:

Please note that dates have changed from the summer college postcard!

- Asian American Resource and Cultural Center Social: July 2, 2009 12:00-1:00
Join AARCC for free pizza and learn about services for Asian Americans such as student organizations and other campus activities. Also, meet students from the Asian American Mentor Program (AAMP), a program designed to help ease the transition to UIC for new Asian American students. Location: Room 101 Taft Hall
- Who are Asian Americans?: July 16, 2009 12:00-1:00
Did you know that 24% of UIC undergraduates are Asian Americans? What groups make up this population, and how are they similar and different? Find out more and discover Asian American Studies courses that fulfill general education requirements while also learning about Asian American history and culture. Location: Room 101 Taft Hall

Dates and Times

- Thursdays (July 2 and July 16); 12noon-1pm
