

UIC College Diversity Profile 2007

Architecture and the Arts

The distinctiveness of the College's mission depends on how dynamically we expand definitions of architecture and the arts so that aesthetics, experimentation, scholarship, composition, representation, and performance all come together in an urban environment that fosters robust models of community engagement. Key to our success is the sustained commitment to the diversity of faculty, students and instruction as well as a diversity of conceptual, artistic, and intellectual approaches to cultural practice. For me, the College's excellence resides in our ability to act in multiple arenas, to construct a discipline specific educational vision reinforced by an overall commitment to instructional programs relevant to the most important issues of our social and political moment. In so many ways, we fulfill the UIC mission of civic engagement.
