

For Teachers

Using Popular Education to Teach about

Gentrification,
Race and Power in Chicago

Saturday January 12, 2008
10:00am — 2:00pm

1040 W. Harrison, 3rd Floor -- room 3233
UIC College of Education

free of charge | lunch provided | CPDUs offered

Chilean popular education specialist Rodrigo Paredes along with members of the Pilsen Alliance, STOP, and the Save Senn Coalition will lead a round-table discussion with community residents, teachers, and students impacted by gentrification about their concerns and experiences. Then teachers will engage in a series of hands-on activities designed to analyze power relations, race and displacement. At the end of the session everyone will receive a curriculum guide that explains how to apply the activities in the classroom. This is a working session designed to provide practical and grounded materials for student-centered social justice education around the issue of gentrification.

Please RSVP by Jan. 9 to Jackson Potter at jpottery2002@yahoo.com.

Parking is on the northeast corner of Morgan & Harrison
(CEJE will provide parking stickers)
Close to CTA BlueLine Halsted stop

For more info, please visit <http://www.uic.edu/educ/ceje/index.html>

Sponsored by:

UIC COLLEGE OF
UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS
AT CHICAGO EDUCATION

Collaborative for Equity & Justice in Education