

MCH Brown Bag Seminar

This event is free and open to the public

March 3, 2010

Martha May Eliot

UIC School of Public Health
1603 W. Taylor St.
Room 932
12:00 pm- 1:00pm

Speaker: Ashley Dyer
MPH MCH Candidate, University of Illinois at Chicago

Please join us for an engaging presentation on the life, work, and legacy of Dr. Martha May Eliot

As a celebrated physician and public health practitioner, Dr. Eliot sparked social change that moved maternal and child health to the forefront of America's political agenda during the early 20th century. Dr. Eliot's leadership and professional achievement greatly impacted many lives and continues to inspire individuals dedicated to forwarding the field of maternal and child health today.

Martha May Eliot (center front), with delegates to the first World Health Assembly, in front of the United Nations, Geneva, Switzerland, 1948 The Schlesinger Library, Radcliffe Institute, Harvard University

This seminar is in collaboration with the UIC Office of Women's Affairs <http://www.uic.edu/depts/owa/> for Women's Heritage Month.

For additional information, contact Jaime Klaus at jaimkl@uic.edu or 312-996-0724