HONORING THOSE WHO GAVE...

The School of Public Health is supported by hundreds of generous donors each year. In gratitude of this unwavering support, the School of Public Health held the first annual Donor Recognition Luncheon on Friday, April 11, 2008 at the Rosebud Restaurant. Students who received this year's endowed funds joined the donors who made their awards possible at the event, held prior to the school's third annual Student Research Forum and Awards Day. The award recipients were honored at the event for recognition of academic excellence, quality of leadership and community service.

The luncheon was hosted by UIC SPH Interim Dean Dr. Sylvia Furner, who provided an introduction to this year's donors and award recipients. Dean-Designate Dr. Paul Brandt-Rauf was also in attendance.

"Seeing all of this young talent around the tables moves me," Dr. Brandt-Rauf said at the event. "As an educator all of my life, this is what it is all about – our next generation."

The work of students, faculty, and staff at School of Public Health would not be possible if not for the generous and consistent support of our donors. And for that reason, on the next few pages we would like to acknowledge the generosity of the individuals, corporations, and foundations whose financial support has benefited the School of Public Health. ■
